The Family zone, located outside the Lévis Convention Centre, will include a marquee and a rest area. A creative scene, animations and a lot of dancing will be at the center of this zone which is presented by the city of Lévis.

The movement zone, also presented by the city of Lévis, will be inside the Lévis Convention Center and will offer a chill room, an interactive photobooth and the traditional Dance Dance Revolution.

The program also promises the return of the Champions of recent years during a memorable evening. Lévis All-Stars Showcase Champions The Young Cast, Krankyd, C4, Welcome, Gossip, Dead Angle, I-Rock and Skip will be back on Friday for historic performances.

An All-Stars Showcase that promises

Several big names in the dance industry will share the stage of the traditional Showcase All-Stars, a high-calibre dance show that brings together guest artists and favorites from the competition.

Following the performance of the competition's favorites, the guest artists will impress everyone present: an opening number with Sarah Steben and Samuel Chouinard, an explosive performance by S-Rank, a duo ballet by Rachele & Esnel, the return of C4, an Exhibition Battle, a number from Rockwell Family and performances from our judges, Derek Piquette, Larkin Poynton and Connor Gormley.

“After navigating uncertainty for months, we are back in a big way! It is under the theme of innovation and surpassing that we offer the fruit of our labor to the dance community: an event that makes us proud, thought and imagined for you all,” concludes Nicolas Bégin.

The HTF Lévis event is open to everyone and tickets for the competition and for the Showcase All-Stars are available online or on site.
